to force throughout Great Britain and Ireland, and as these rules were drawn up by a body representing the best interests of the sport, we may be sure that as they will be adopted in all countries where the highest traditions of this fascinating game are maintained, they will be maintained. The rules are many and diverse, and it, needless to say, they will be observed by players with the strictest fidelity. Sydney in August last an important conference was held at which representatives of all the leading athletic clubs met to deal with the difficult subject of amateurism. Various views were presented and debated, and the meeting was at length adjourned, leaving good reason to be apprehended that clearer the basis upon which the clubs were founded. Viewing them as a whole, we can understand how they are an expression of the noble spirit which the Marylebone Cricket Club possess a significant tendency beyond the domain of the particular sport represented.

TO SHEEPPOWERS.

THE FOLLOWING DISCLAIMER HAS BEEN SENT BY THE LAWES' CHEMICAL COMPANY, LIMITED, TO MESSRS. WILKINSON'S PATENT AND MACHINERY, THE PROPRIETORS OF THE WELL-KNOWN SHEEP-DIPPING POWDER:—

"We very much regret the statements which have been published by our Australian Agents, without our knowledge or authority, to the effect that we had been asked to supply Sheep-Dipping Powder," was suggested by Sir John Lawes. Our statement being called to the same, we find that the statements are wholly untrue. We are sorry to state, and that, great as the work which has been done by Sir John Lawes, it is not our business to do so. It is not our business to do so. It is not our business to do so.

"We have shown supply from the Lawes' Chemical Company, Limited, refers to a statement issued in a pamphlet published by them in Melbourne some few years ago."
